ENGLISH RACING REFORM.

A short time back the Jockey Club made changes in the rules governing racing in England, that will work radical changes in the direction of curtailing the present excessive racing of 2-year-olds, and in substituting long distance races for the sprints that have for some years past formed the preponderating feature in the daily programs of nearly all English race meetings. The reforms sought to be effected in England are equally needed in this country. The Spirit of the Times reproduces from Land and Water the following comments on the new rules.

"To go into details with regard to the short report which appeared in the 'Calendar' the first business was the properly defining of what is a weight-for-age race, and it was decided that all races which are not handicaps or selling races are weight-for-age races. That this was not exactly the case before, the somewhat curiously worded old rule went to prove, and as a matter of fact, though the Derby, St. Leger, etc., were always spoken of as the great weight-for-age races, they were nothing of the kind. In fact, to go strictly by the old rule, weight-for-age races were those which were not handicaps, but in which horses of various ages took part, for example, the Ascot Cup, the ten thousand-pounders, and the July Cup at Newmarket, or the Fernhill Stakes at Ascot, where 2-year-olds ran against old horses. At the same time, all races except handicaps and selling plates have been broadly spoken of as weight-for-age races for years, and thus the new rule is only the confirmation of an old custom. The next business was the altering of the definition of a sweepstake, which was altered slightly, so that it is now made imperative that the stakes, deposited by the subscribers, may be paid to the winner, or other horses placed, no matter what money or other prize is added. The old rule did not stipulate for any such payment, and therefore it was possible for any race executive to tap the stakes if they exceeded the guaranteed value of the race.

"The above alterations were not of paramount interest, but the alterations in Rule 45 are the most sweeping measures of reform which have been brought about during the present generation. Rule 45, as it stood until last week, provided that one half of the total amount guaranteed for prizes at each meeting should be apportioned to a race of a mile or over for 3-year-olds and upward. This was thought to be a big reform when it was passed about six years ago, and it had the effect of knocking on the head some of the mammoth prizes, especially among the 2-year-olds. That it did good I have no doubt, as it withdrew some of the temptation there was to train young horses in their first season which would have fared better had they been kept. The present stewards have, however, gone a step further, having added to the existing rule the following words: 'and of this half, not less than a moiety shall be for races of a mile and a half and upward.' This addition to the old rule makes it certain that we shall get more long distance racing in the future, and no matter what difficulties there may be at first, in the long run the reform will be much appreciated, especially by the general public, who on nine racecourses out of ten will see more circular racing than formerly, and not so much of the straightaway sprint.

"Lord Stanley's proposal was made with a view to curtailing early 2-year-old racing, and after some discussion it was passed that no 2-year-old should run in any race of greater guaranteed value than £200 before June 1. Then came the stewards' proposal with regard to Rule 47, which, being carried by a small majority, now reads as follows:

"47. The program of each day shall be subject to the following regulations:

"(i) There shall be at least one race of one mile and a half or upward, and at least one race of a mile or upward. Neither of these races shall be open to 2-year-olds; and one of them shall be neither a handicap nor a race with selling conditions.

"(ii) There shall not be more than two races, to which 3-year-olds or upward are admitted, of less than seven furlongs, and of these two races only one may be less than six furlongs.

"(iii) Of the races confined to 2-year-olds, there shall not be more than two races a day before September 1, nor more than three at any time.

"(iv) Matches and private sweepstakes may be sanctioned by the stewards, independent of the above regulations."

"Lord Stanley also contemplated proposing that 2-year-olds should only run over four furlongs before June 1, but this proposal was withdrawn, the general opinion being that it was a retrograde movement. His lordship, however, is not quite done yet, for he has given notice that at the Houghton Meeting he will move that 2-year-olds shall not run with older horses before June 1.

"It will be time enough to discuss this measure when it is carried, and to sum up the whole of what has been done, the general effect will be that trainers will have to try all their horses for stamina as well as speed, and, in fact, in a great measure to alter their present system. It is a sort of generally recognized fact that horses recover from the effects of a short race more quickly than from the effects of a long one, and that in consequence a majority of the horses in training—more especially the platers—are only trained for short cuts, because they can come again more quickly. During the early part of the century four-mile heats were almost the rule at the provincial meetings, and the five-furlong sprint was practically unknown. A search into the old 'Calendar,' however, reveals the fact that the runners in the four-mile heat races 'came again' quite as quickly as the modern sprinters, and they performed quite as often in the course of a season. Is it, then, certain that horses running a mile and a half and two miles will take so long to recover as the opponents of the new rules make out? I do not think there is any reason why they should, and in proof of my opinion I may mention that Goletha ran two races of two miles each well within the hour at Ascot this year, and that a fortnight afterward she ran the best race of her life when she won the Princess of Wales' Stakes at Newmarket."

GOSSIP OF THE TURF.

Carroll Reid will within the next week or ten days ship Bangle and the others of the Gardner string to Nashville. Mr. Reid will himself go to the Avondale Stock Farm at the same time to select a string which Gardner & Son will race at the coming big meeting of the Crescent City Jockey Club. He will take to New Orleans ten head in all, including several yearlings. Bangle and a majority of the others that raced in the east will be turned out until next spring, to begin their season's work at Memphis. White Frost, who was recently bought out of the stable by Stephen Sanford & Son, has, Mr. Reid says, appeared in public for the last time. Messrs. Sanford & Son are very wealthy carpet manufacturers, who have established a breeding establishment at Amsterdam, N. Y. They have in the stud Clifford and Potomac, and White Frost has gone to join a number of other high-class mares, including One-I-Love, La Tosca, Brown Princess and others. White Frost is to be bred to Clifford—Cincinnati Enquirer.

Ornament, chestnut colt, 4, by Order—Victorine, by Rayon d'Or, will race no more. He will go into the stud at Beaumont, the farm of H. P. Headley, near Lexington, Ky., where he was foaled. He goes into the stud with a long list of great turf events to his credit, and few, if any, horses have assumed the role of progenitors of their kind with a more brilliant and enviable turf record. His breeding is unimpeachable by the most critical connoisseur, and his future in the stud should be as bright as his turf career in the past. On both sides of his family he is from producing blood, and with the opportunities he will have in Kentucky he is destined to make a great sire.—Turf, Field and Farm.

A sample of the exquisite sense of justice of the stewards was noted at Westchester on Saturday. They fined one McIsaac for an assault on Trainer Tom Welsh, when eye witnesses said that Welsh was the aggressor and struck the first blow. The poor fellow who demanded his salary was not only abused, but struck in the face by Welsh, knocked down by three policemen, locked up and fined by the stewards. If that isn't a fair deal, then what is it?

Another sample of justice was the following: At Saratoga McCafferty started Lexington Pirate. The horse was not fit to race, and McCafferty was punished to the extent of having his jockey's license taken away. At Westchester Forget was started. She was not fit to race either. But her owners, the Hitchcocks, were not reprimanded, nor was the trainer's license taken away. The affair was dismissed with the information to the public that the mare had sprained her back in a previous race. The cases were identical, but the Hitchcocks are powers in the racing world, while McCafferty enjoys no such prestige. It all depends on whose ox is gored.—New York Evening World.

Washingtonians are expecting good racing at the approaching Bennings meeting. A feature is to be a long distance stake event which it is hoped will be contested by a fine field of stayers. Its conditions are as follows: "The Washington Subscription Cup, for three-year-olds and upward; entrance fee, $10 each; $15 additional for starters; to be either a weight for age race, with allowances, or a selling race, as may be decided upon by the committee. The subscriptions received to be divided—not less than $1,200 to the winner, $300 to the second, $200 to the third. To close at the office of the clerk of the course, at Bennings, D. C., at noon of Saturday, November 19, 1898. Two miles and a quarter.

Counsel for the New Jersey racetrack men, represented by Charles Betts, have appealed from the New Jersey Supreme Court's decision as to the legality of the anti-gambling amendment. The matter has been carried to the Court of Errors and Appeals for review. If the case takes its regular turn it will be reached at the March term.

Clieveden, bay horse, foaled 1880 by Yaltendon—Lady Chester, by Stockwell, has been shipped from California back to Australia, where he was bred. During his stay in California he sired several winners, among them Los Prietos, a good 2-year-old last year.

Milton Young has purchased St. Florian and added him to the list of splendid stallions that serve to make McGrathiana famous among American stock breeding farms.

READY AT LAKESIDE.

At Lakeside yesterday everything was full of life and movement. In fact, it resembled the opening of a spring meeting at Memphis or some other southern point, more than an opening of a late fall northern meeting.

The track has dried out wonderfully, and if no more rain falls it will be at its best today when Imp and Macy will meet again. The last time these two consistent performers came together was at Washington Park, and the race created about as much interest as any of the stake events, barring of course the American Derby. Imp carried 112 pounds that day to Macy's 117, and beat him easily. Should both start in today's mile and 100 yards race Macy will have a big pull in the weights, and may turn the tables on the black whirlwind.

The grandstand and betting ring have been enclosed and should the weather become unpleasant the patrons will not suffer. Col. Clark will preside and Richard Dwyer will do the starting. Taking everything into consideration the outlook for a good fifteen days racing is very bright. Of course the syndicate betting system has its enemies, but this will be no serious drawback to good racing. There is a sprinkling of good class all through today's entries and the card looks attractive.

Owing to illness John Condon will be absent from the track. The business end, though, will not suffer to any great extent, it being in care of Charles J. Miers and Secretary Nathanson.

The train service will be far better than it was during the spring meeting. At that time the tracks were being elevated and the ride was often a tiresome one. The elevations are now completed and the scheduled time from the depot to the track is twenty-five minutes. The Pittsburg, Fort Wayne & Chicago R.R. will run the following express trains from the Union depot—12:20, 12:50, 1:10. The regular suburban train leaves at 2 p. m. All trains stop at Archer avenue, Forty-fifth street and Englewood. The round-trip fare is twenty-five cents. Admission to the grounds fifty cents.

The Illinois Central express trains will leave the depot at the foot of Randolph street at 12:30 and 1:05 p. m., stopping at Van Buren, Twelfth, Twenty-second, Thirty-ninth and Sixty-third streets.

Owners at Lakeside who feel the need of a jockey are getting up a petition which will be given Col. Clark asking the latter to reinstate little Rose. The boy possesses considerable riding ability but has a combative disposition.

Mr. Schorr has shipped his entire string with the exception of eight horses to Memphis to go into winter quarters.

NOTES OF THE TURF.

Curly Brown has made three additions to the string which he is getting together to race at New Orleans. Thursday afternoon he bought from A. D. Payne the chestnut filly Chat of Me, by Charaxus—Ninone, and winner of the first race at Latonia Monday, the two-year-old colt Jack Gay, a brother to Chat of Me, and the two-year-old filly Neyola.

Columbus, O., is to have a ten days running meeting next June. There was some talk of giving a short meeting there this fall, but it was only talk.

The 2-year-old colt Press Kimball, by Ben Strome—Adom, died at Latonia Thursday of inflammation of the bowels.

Time, 12½, 24½, 1:02.

Winner—Ch. f. by Silver Fox—Asteria.

Post 10 minutes. Start poor. Won driving. Sister Fox closed strong and gamely. She was almost left at the post. Prince of Wales got a bad break and met disastrous interference. With a stronger finisher up Meddlesome would have won. Handcuff and Rare Perfume ran finely.

Scratched—Colonel Tenny, 96; Stranger, 92; Lamity, 84; Savilla, 84.

Overweights—Handcuff, 2 pounds; Anitra, 3.

Sister Fox, place, 3 to 1; show, even. Handcuff, place, 6 to 5; show, 1 to 2. Meddlesome, show, 3 to 1.
